The Actuaries

My profession is a passion – becoming an actuary

This issue is all about passion – for mathematics, risk management and actuarial science. We spoke with two experts from actuarial practice about their professional careers. Why did they decide to become an actuary and what makes this job so fascinating for them? Love for their profession also drives those actuaries who work in an honorary capacity alongside their regular job. Again, we have spoken to insiders about what they have learned from volunteering their services and working in an honorary capacity. And last but not least, we take a closer look at the working life and experiences of LGBTQIA+ actuaries and how they face challenges to become or stay satisfied and proud as actuaries.
